Conference Overview

More than 250 people attended the two Abu Dhabi events, which were held in conjunction with PVPC Expo 2018, an international exhibition of pumps, valves, pipes and compressors held every year in the emirate.

The conference aims to provide attendees with an exclusive, live update on the outlook for the Middle East market, and also opportunity to make new contacts and do some high-level networking with industry peers.

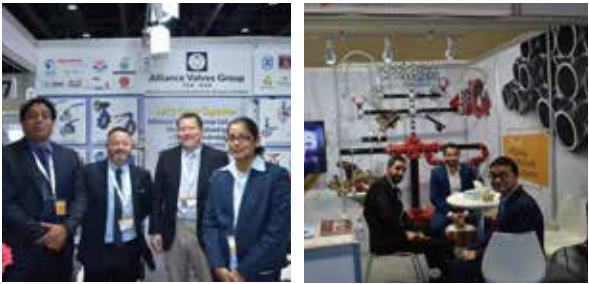

Broadly, the companies represented at the event said that they were very optimistic that the outlook for 2018 was considerably better than their experiences in 2017. About 40 percent said that 2017 had been a more difficult year for them than 2016, but about 89 percent in the construction sector said they were optimistic about 2018. This is set against a mere 5 percent who described their outlook for 2018 as pessimistic. In the oil and gas sector, 68 per cent of respondents described their outlook as optimistic.
